

Let's have some fun?

IW

“Practice and repetition lead us to perfection, or at least, closer enough”.

---

Here are the answers

Chimamanda is a well-known historian and author

The answer is: no

She started reading at the age of two

The answer is: no

In most of the books she wrote she described the climate.

The answer is: no

When she came across African books she went through a mental shift in her literature perception.

The answer is: yes

African writers unveiled a whole new world.

The answer is: yes

It was the norm in middle class families to have a butler at home who came from nearby rural villages.

The answer is: doesn't say

When she visited Fide's family his mother showed her a beautifully patterned basket made of dyed raffia that made her feel astonished and ashamed.

The answer is: yes

At University she used to play her tribal music to her roommate.

The answer is: no

She was quite pissed off by an announcement at the airport referring Africa as a country.

The answer is: no

People in America, and herself, think that Africa is a place of beautiful landscapes, beautiful animals, and incomprehensible people, fighting senseless wars, dying of poverty and AIDS, unable to speak for themselves and waiting to be saved by a kind, white foreigner.

The answer is: no

John Locke sailed to west Africa in 1661 and kept a fascinating account of his voyage.

The answer is: no

J. Locke described Africa as a place of negatives, of difference, of darkness, of people who, in his own words, are "half devil, half child."

The answer is: no

She had a professor who told her that an educated and middle-class man who drives cars and is not starving is not authentically African.

The answer is: yes

When she visited Mexico from the U.S. The political climate was strained.

The answer is: yes

Mexicans were fleeing the healthcare system, sneaking across the border, and consequently being arrested.

The answer is: no

She referred to the Mexicans as the pitiful immigrant.

The answer is: yes

Igbo language is one of the many languages spoken in Nigeria.

The answer is: doesn't say

It is such a shame that Nigerian men are physical abusers like the father character she describes in her novel.

The answer is: no

She explained the diet she would eat, as was the norm, in her childhood .

The answer is: no

The single story creates stereotypes, and the problem with stereotypes is not that they are untrue, but that they are incomplete. They make one story become the only story.

The answer is: yes

The Nigerian educational system is to be blamed for the unemployment rate in Nigeria.

The answer is: doesn't say

A black and white photograph of a busy city street. In the foreground, a large banner with the text "NO OTHER NAME" is visible. The background shows tall buildings and a street with people walking. The overall scene is a city street with a prominent banner.

The cinema of Nigeria grew quickly to become the second largest film industry in the world in terms of number of annual film productions, placing it ahead of the United States and behind the Indian film industry.

The answer is: doesn't say

Farafina Trust is a non-profit organization established to promote reading, writing, and a culture of social introspection and engagement through the literary arts.

The answer is: doesn't say

She believes that development is not possible without a coherent understanding of the dynamics of our societies.

The answer is: yes

Fab Silva