

Let's have some fun?

“Practice and repetition lead us to perfection, or at least, closer enough”.

Here are the answers

The Internet is packed full of clips of people's cats doing _____ things.

The answer is: hilarious

So we thought we'd put these wonders of the web to work and find out if cats are as _____ as their smug little faces suggest, or if they're as daft as the rest of us.

The answer is: clever

Let's jump straight in by examining cats' amazing _____ skills.

The answer is: leaping

Blessed with incredibly powerful back legs and a low body weight, they're capable of jumping up to six times their own _____ with grace and pinpoint accuracy.

The answer is: height

When it comes to our leaping prowess, _____ we lack a cat's strength, their grace, and their accuracy.

The answer is: pound for pound

I'm sure you'll _____ next time. No? No.

The answer is: smash it

So what is it about _____ leap that leaves us humans for dust?

The answer is: a kitty's leap

Well it's all down to evolution and increasing kinetic energy for the _____.

The answer is: jump

When preparing to jump, Missy adopts a _____ position, like a coiled spring.

The answer is: crouched

This allows her to exploit the full _____ of her powerful rear legs as she leaps upwards.

The answer is: strength

On landing she pulls herself up with her back legs, gripping with her _____, bringing her to a graceful halt.

The answer is: claws

In the wild cats use their leaping skills as an essential part of _____. And moggies domesticus still likes to keep his aim.

The answer is: hunting

He spotted his prey. He waited. He _____. He forgot about the window.

The answer is: pounced

A numb _____ is no fun. It's time Mr. Waffles found somewhere warmer to sit.

The answer is: bum

Mr. Waffles didn't figure on the importance of _____ when attempting to lift off.

The answer is: friction

Although he was hoping to jump up by pushing down and backwards on the car roof, his _____ meant the energy was wasted.

The answer is: slip

Fab Silva